The text

1. The first day of school our professor introduced himself and challenged us to get to know someone we didn't already know. I stood up to look around when a gentle hand touched my shoulder. I turned around to find a wrinkled, little old lady beaming up at me with a smile that lit up her entire being. She said, "Hi handsome. My name is Rose. I'm eighty-seven years old. Can I give you a hug?" I laughed and enthusiastically responded, "Of course you may!" Why are you in college at such a young, innocent age?" I asked. She jokingly replied, "I'm here to meet a rich husband, get married, and have a couple of kids, and then retire and travel." "No, seriously," I asked.

2. I was curious what may have motivated her to be taking on this challenge at her age. "I always dreamed of having a college education and now I'm getting one!" She told me. After class we walked to the student union building and shared a chocolate milkshake. We became instant friends. Every day for the next three months, we would leave class together and talk nonstop. I was always mesmerized listening to this "time machine" as she shared her wisdom and experience with me.

3. Over the course of the year, Rose became a campus icon, and she easily made friends wherever she went. She loved to dress up and she reveled in the attention bestowed upon her from the other students. She was living it up. At the end of the semester, we invited Rose to speak at our football banquet. I'll never forget what she taught us. She was introduced and stepped up to the podium.

4. Frustrated and a little embarrassed she leaned into the microphone, and said, "I gave up beer for Lent and this whiskey is killing me! I'll never get my speech back in order, so let me just tell you what I know." As we laughed she cleared her throat and began, "We do not stop playing because we are old; we grow old because we stop playing. There are only four secrets to staying young, being happy and achieving success. You have to laugh and find humor every day. You've got to have a dream. When you lose your dreams, you die. Remember, growing older is mandatory, growing up is optional.

While people leaving big cities have been occurring for approximately 50 years now, this seems to have become increasingly popular. For many, it was evident that the coronavirus pandemic not only had an immediate on the availability of work, education, and socialization, but that it would have a lasting impact. In a survey conducted by the Harris Poll, it was that approximately 40% of all people living in urban cities consider leaving the city for environments that are less crowded. For many people, the thought of living in a less crowded was considered to be a health move. With the rise of infections associated with COVID-19 and the high levels of death the infected, many feared for their lives. As a result, many discovered that they could no longer afford to reside and live in urban areas.

2. Put the words in parentheses in the correct tense or form. (0.25X4= 1 mark)

Although there is a great deal of variation within each gender, on the average, men and women (to discuss) a surprisingly different range of topics. Certain topics were common to both men and women; work, movies, and television proved to be frequent topics for both groups. The differences between men and women were more striking than the (similar) Female friends spent much more time discussing personal and domestic subjects, relationship problems, family, health and reproductive matters, weight, food and (to clothe)..... Men, on the other hand, were more likely to discuss music, current events, sports and business. Women were more likely to gossip about close friends and family. By contrast, men (to spend) more time gossiping about sports figures and media personalities. These differences can lead to frustration when men and women try to converse with one another.
